

Translating our Website to a Different Language

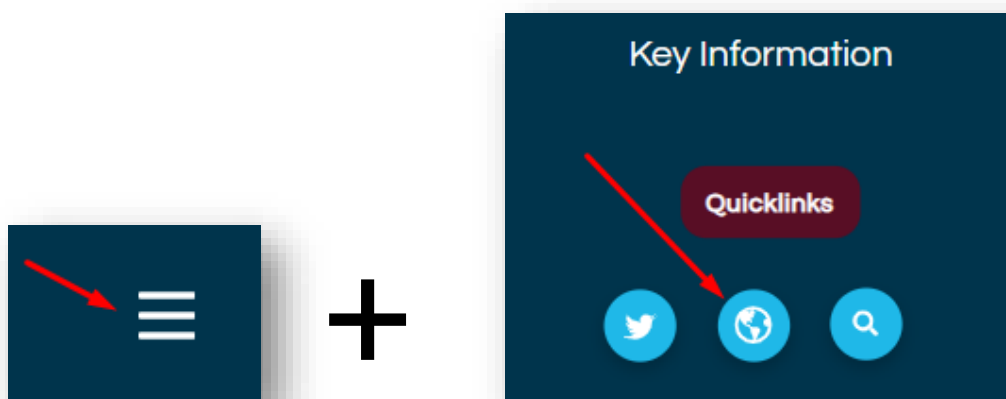

The SMRT website has a language translator powered by Google Translate.

To switch the website to another language, locate the Earth icon and select the language.

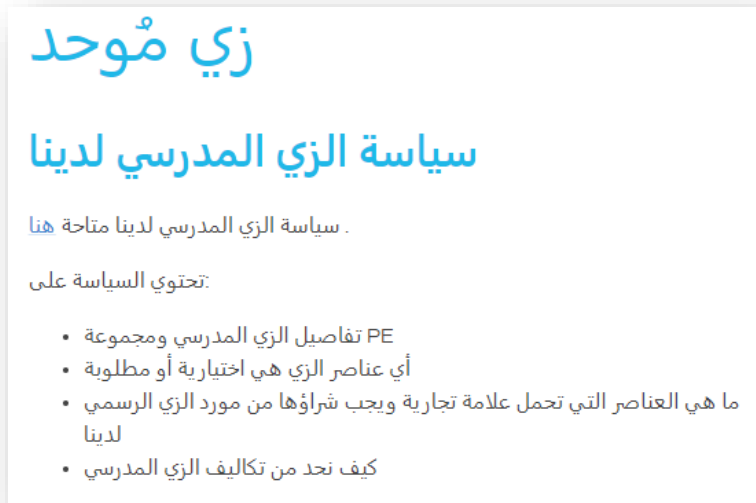

On desktops the icon is in the top right corner of the site.

On mobile the translate icon is in the footer of the navigation menu.

Once a language is selected all the pages on the site will show content in that language for the duration of your visit.

Use the Google translate menu that now appears at the top of your page if you want to change back to the original English or choose a different language.

Translating our Website's Documents

Our website contains many documents in PDF and Word format. To translate these to another language you can download the documents from our website and then upload to the Google Translate for Documents website here.

Communications Translated for You

Occasionally, SMRT will provide translations in a range of languages for important pieces of information. This will be indicated on the website page. For example, the translations can appear in a single document alongside the original communication.

 SMRT Uniform Code from September 2025 - 20/06/25

 Translated Versions of this Letter

